The Summer I Turned Pretty by Jenny Han

Belly measures her life in summers. Everything good happens when she heads to the beach house and gets to spend time with Jeremiah and Conrad. The boys have been her brother figures, her crushes, and everything in-between. Everything that has happened the past summer, and every summer before it, has all led up to this. To now. It's going to be an amazing summer. One none of them will ever forget...

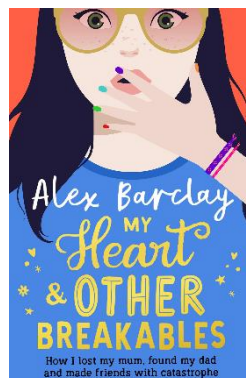

Miss Peregrine's Home for Peculiar Children by Ransom Riggs

A family tragedy sets 16-year-old Jacob journeying to a remote island off the coast of Wales, where he discovers a crumbling ruin. Exploring its bedrooms and hallways, it becomes clear that Miss Peregrine's children were more than just peculiar. They may have been dangerous, quarantined on a deserted island for good reason. And somehow – impossible though it may seem – they may still be alive...

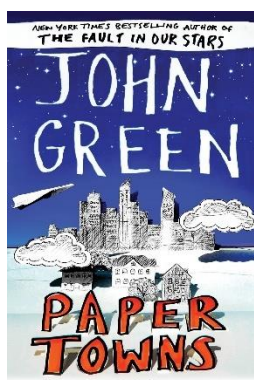

They Both Die at the End by Adam Silvera

On September 5th, a little after midnight, Death-Cast calls Mateo Torrez and Rufus Emeterio to give them some bad news: they're going to die today. Mateo and Rufus are total strangers, but, for different reasons, they're both looking to make a new friend on their End Day. The good news: there's an app for that. It's called the Last Friend, and through it, Rufus and Mateo are about to meet up for one last great adventure – to live a lifetime in a single day.

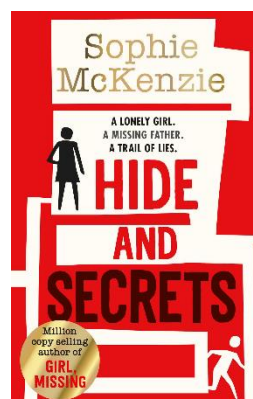

My Heart & Other Breakables by Alex Barclay

After her mum dies, Ellery is supposed to write a diary to record her feelings about her loss. Instead, she gets caught up in her attempt to discover who her dad might have been. She and her friend Meg have narrowed it down to three people, but they're on different continents, which means fake IDs, passports, plane tickets and somehow getting away from Ellery's self-obsessed grandmother...

Paper Towns by John Green

Quentin Jacobsen has always loved Margo from afar. So, when she climbs through his window to summon him on an all-night road trip of revenge, he cannot help but follow. But the next morning, Q turns up at school and Margo doesn't. She's left clues to her disappearance, like a trail of breadcrumbs for Q to follow. And everything leads to one unavoidable question: who is the real Margo?

Heartstopper Volume 1 by Alice Oseman

Charlie and Nick are at the same school, but they've never met ... until one day when they're made to sit together. They quickly become friends, and soon Charlie is falling hard for Nick, even though he doesn't think he has a chance. But love works in surprising ways, and Nick is more interested in Charlie than either of them realised.

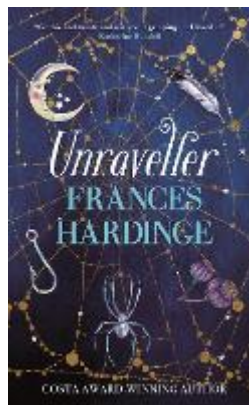

Rock Paper Killers by Alexia Mason

When five Dublin teenagers arrive at a rural coastal college to cram for their final exams, their most pressing concern is the prospect of a month with no partying. Little do they know that one of them will never make it back home...

The Asparagus Bunch by Jessica Scott-Whyte

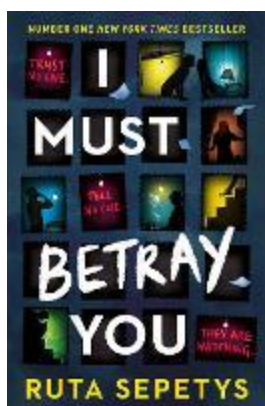

Leon John Crothers is 4779 days old (thirteen years and one month, if you're mathematically challenged). He has been 'moved on' from six different schools and most people think he has an attitude problem. How Leon manages to navigate school woes and family drama - and astonishingly ends up with not one but two friends - is nothing short of a miracle, or maybe just simply down to being different...

Unraveller by Frances Hardinge

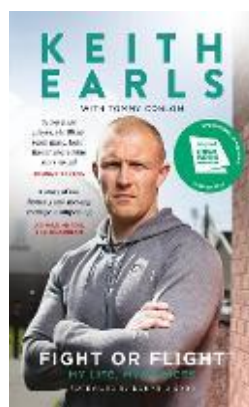

In a world where you can cast a life destroying curse, only one person has the power to unravel them. Kellen does not fully understand his unique gift, but helps those transformed maliciously - including Nettle, his closest ally.

But now Kellen has been cursed and unless he and Nettle can remove it. Kellen is in danger of unravelling everything and everyone.

I Must Betray You by Ruta Sepetys

Cristian lives in a country repressed by a cruel dictator. At 17 he dreams of being free, of studying philosophy and poetry, but everything he does, says or even thinks is controlled by the State. In this climate of constant suspicion, can he trust his best friend, his girlfriend or even his family? When the secret police blackmail him, he is faced with an impossible choice. Will he betray those closest to him, or will he resist and risk the lives of those he loves? What price would you pay for freedom?

Fight or Flight by Keith Earls

Keith Earls is one of the most admired and respected players of his generation. Yet Keith Earls has endured private battles with his mental health for most of his remarkable career. A number of crises brought him to the brink of voluntary retirement from professional rugby. A native of Limerick city, Earls grew up in Moyross, which was blighted by crime and violence. Earls gives a frank and compelling insight into the highs and lows of playing as top flight Rugby professional.
